“Rigor is to academic work what careful practice and nuanced performance is to musical performance and what intense and committed play is to athletic performance. When we talk about a ‘rigorous course’ in something, it’s a course that examines details, insists on diligent and scrupulous study and performance, and doesn’t settle for a mild or informal contact with the key ideas.”

Classes & Faculty

Our academic year begins in September of each year, with classes meeting the third weekend of every month, on Thursday and Friday evenings, 6:00 pm. until 9:30 pm., and Saturday, 8:30 am. until 11:00 a.m. unless otherwise noted. Always check the Academic Calendar for changes due to the holidays, etc.

Classes are hybrid: students may use the Zoom platform.

Our classes are designed for the busy adult without compromising academic rigor and educational integrity.

All of our faculty members are academically prepared to guide you through an intense but transforming academic experience with spiritual formation in mind. rev. 10/2025
